COMMUNITY PROFILE

Southwick is a growing community with a population of just under 9,500. Traditionally rooted in recreation and agriculture, the town continues to offer these amenities through the Congamond Lakes, a motocross center, several golf courses, and expansive open space. Its convenient proximity to Springfield, Massachusetts and Hartford, Connecticut has contributed to steady residential growth.

Tolland is a small, rural community on the edge of the Berkshires with a population of approximately 550. A significant portion of its land is preserved through controlled forest development, and it remains a popular destination for outdoor activities such as hunting and fishing.

Granville, with a population of approximately 1,600, is defined by the rolling hills of the Berkshires and features several buildings listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The town is also home to the well-known Granville Harvest Fair, which draws visitors from across New England.

All three communities are friendly, family-oriented places to live and work. They all demonstrate strong support for the regional school district and its programs.
